

O&O DiskErase: Erases hard drives or the entire PC safely and easily.

Berlin, April 01, 2020

All files, settings, applications and the operating system are securely deleted according to recognized procedures, so that restoration is impossible.

Protection of private information under Windows

O&O DiskErase can safely delete the entire content of a computer without the need for an additional start medium. This allows users to pass on or sell their old PC without the risk of inadvertent disclosure of sensitive data or software licenses.

SSDs can also be securely deleted

Thanks to the unique SolidErase technology developed by O&O, data on SSDs are also hardware-friendly and safely destroyed.

Easy to use for everybody

Using O&O DiskErase is extremely simple: an assistant guides the user through the deletion step by step. The user can choose whether only one partition, the entire hard drive or even the entire PC should be securely deleted, so that not even the operating system (and thus the license included) is left behind. As normal deletion under Windows does not really destroy the data, it can be restored and misused very easily with data recovery programs.

To prevent accidental deletion, O&O DiskErase uses a confirmation procedure by entering a security code. Only then will the deletion process be started. An additional startup medium is not necessary even when deleting the entire PC, not even from Windows itself.

Pricing and availability

O&O DiskErase costs 10 USD. For use on up to 5 computers, O&O offers the license for 15 USD. All prices include 19% VAT where applicable.

Interested users can find a free 30-day trial version of O&O DiskErase on the O&O website:
